Report of Findings

- Female passengers had significantly higher survival rates.

- Passengers in 1st class were more likely to survive compared to lower classes.

- Fare paid is positively correlated with survival.

- Age distribution shows that middle-aged passengers were the majority; children's survival needs further analysis.

- Missing data in Age and Cabin needs to be addressed before modeling.